The Law Forum, now in its tenth year, has for the first time utilized a unifying theme for most of the issue. As is obvious from the cover, the theme is Hypnotism and the law. Law students, law professors, judges, and professional hypnotists have all contributed in providing material and information on the role hypnotism has played in our legal system.

The Hypnotism And The Law theme also ties directly into the Hypnotism And The Law Symposium, sponsored by the University of Baltimore School of Law on March 14 and 15, 1980. Further information about the Symposium can be found on the pages that follow.

Of course, the Forum would not be complete without our humor column and casenotes on recent Supreme Court decisions.

I would like to extend a note of thanks to the Forum staff who made this issue possible.
