

1983

University of Baltimore Law Professors Participate in the Maryland Judicial Institute Program

Follow this and additional works at: <http://scholarworks.law.ubalt.edu/lf>

Part of the Law Commons

Recommended Citation

(1983) "University of Baltimore Law Professors Participate in the Maryland Judicial Institute Program," University of Baltimore Law Forum: Vol. 13: No. 2, Article 4.

Available at: <http://scholarworks.law.ubalt.edu/lf/vol13/iss2/4>

This Article is brought to you for free and open access by ScholarWorks@University of Baltimore School of Law. It has been accepted for inclusion in University of Baltimore Law Forum by an authorized administrator of ScholarWorks@University of Baltimore School of Law. For more information, please contact snolan@ubalt.edu.

Alfred A. Porro, Jr. is a nationally known expert on tideland and marshland cases. He has received many national awards for his work, including awards from National Geographic, the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, the National Audubon Society, and the American Trial Lawyers Association, among others. He has written and lectured extensively throughout this country and in Australia on the subject. Presently, he teaches State and Local Government, Trial Advocacy, Professional Responsibility and Legal Skills at the University of Baltimore School of Law.

James P. Weidener is a registered land surveyor in nine eastern states and a professional planner. He is a member of the ACSM and former President of the New Jersey Society of Professional Surveyors.

University of Baltimore Law Professors Participate in the Maryland Judicial Institute Program

On March 24, 1983, University of Baltimore Law School Professors Arnold Rochvarg and Al Porro made presentations to the Maryland Judicial Institute, a continuing legal education program for judges in Maryland.

Arnold Rochvarg, a member of the Institute's Board of Directors chaired the program on Judicial Review of Administrative Decisions. Rochvarg lectured on the advantages of administrative decision making and how these advantages should be translated into an understanding of judicial review. He also addressed the approaches that a judge should take when handling these cases such as concepts of deference, agency expertise, the need for uniformity of decisions, the efficiency of decision making and separation of powers.

Al (Alfred) Porro lectured on new legal concepts in zoning. The presentation focused on the Mt. Laurel II decision which establishes that it is unconstitutional for a municipality to not provide low and moderate income housing "for a fair share for the region." Professor Porro also discussed the burdens of proof on the parties in zoning litigation, zoning and planning and what to look for in expert testimony in such litigation.

The Maryland Judicial Institute program was held at the University of Maryland, College Park. Other speakers in attendance included: Henry Lord, Piper & Marbury; Stan Abrams, Levitan, Ezrin, West & Kerxton; Dennis Sweeney, the Attorney General's Office; G. Joseph Sills, Commissioner on the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Faculty Colloquium on Business Organizations

The Faculty Colloquium on Business Organizations sponsored a panel discussion on the future of state regulation of corporate takeovers after the Supreme Court's recent decision in Edgar v. MITE Corp. on March 20, 1983 at the University of Baltimore Law Center. The program entitled After the Fall: New Directions in State Regulation of Takeovers included not only a discussion of the MITE decision, but also an analysis of several "second-generation" state takeover statutes, including two which were before the Maryland Legislature this Spring. These new statutes pose novel commerce clause and preemption issues, and once again bring to the fore the question of whether the states should play a role in the regulation of takeover battles. The panel members were Arthur W. Machen, Jr. of Venable, Baetjer & Howard; K. Houston Matney, Commissioner, Maryland Division of Securities; L. P. Scriggins of Piper & Marbury; and Professor Mark A. Sargent of the University of Baltimore School of Law. A discussion among the faculty and the students in attendance followed the initial presentations by the panel members.

* * *

Available May 1, 1983
An all NEW edition
of

The City of Baltimore Municipal Handbook

A complete guide to Baltimore
from A(quarium) to Z(oo).

Contact:
The Department of Legislative Reference
396-4730

or
Your Favorite Bookstore